Attorney William Bohannan of this city represented the interests of the three boys, as he said, after the hearing, that civil suits would be brought When Judge Dance called the case, Attorney Phillips said that he wished to withdraw a plea of not guilty, which had been formally entered by Sheriff Pease, previously, and he filed a demurrer instead. Justice Dance immediately overruled the demurrer and Mr. Phillips declined to have his client plead over. There was consid erable argument about whether or not evidence should be taken. Mr. Phillips said that it should not, but Mr. Willmott, the grand juror-prosecutor, insisted that it should, and he called Mr. McFarland as the first witness. Mr. Phillips then stated that he, as counsel for Sheriff Pease, would refuse to cross-examine any witness or introduce any evidence in Sheriff Pease's behalf. He claimed that all that was necessary, in view of the demutrer, was for the justice to fix a penalty. After all has been said that can be said about cabinet and control-devices and all such, the one quality which decides a choice is TONE.

That it is which wins favor or loses it.

That it is which is the soul of the instrument.

"But how am I to judge between the three? How can I decide unless I hear them under similar conditions?"

The opportunty to hear each of these instruments under exactly the same conditions is afforded here and now. In the store's sound-proof rooms, each may be listened to. And then, when the test of comparison has been made, decision is to be reached with intelligence and satisfaction.

Naturally each maker claims to excel. Only way to judge is after hearing each.

That decision once made, ownership is easy.

Any instrument may be purchased on a plan of easy payments. Under this plan, no extra amount is charged for privilege of paying in small sums. These are the prices:

Victrola— $15 to $250 Columbia $15 to $150 Sonora_ $42.50 to $115

The price is paid in weekly amounts of 75c to $2.50. The chosen instrument is delivered upon payment of a first sum of $1 to $10.

Will you come, and enjoy a private recital, and decide for yourself which is best? and then benefit by the store's liberal selling plan?
